JAY TAYLOR

The New Mexico native begins his first year as NMHBA first vice president.

By Michael Cusortelli

Jay Taylor is living a rich and diverse life. A native of Albuquerque, he begins his second year on the New Mexico Horse Breeders' Association board of trustees, and his first as the NMHBA's first vice president.

Taylor is a 1967 graduate of Rio Grande High School in Albuquerque's south valley, where he lettered in football, track, and wrestling. On his 18th birthday, he joined the U.S. Marine Corps and earned Bronze Star and Navy Commendation medals while serving as a scout sniper in Vietnam.

Taylor says he struggled with the memories of his actions in Vietnam, and that inspired him to write a book about his experiences, entitled, "Point of Aim, Point of Impact" (www.pointofaimvietnam.com).

"There've been a lot of books written about scout snipers during that era, and most of them are just Hollywood junk, with more lies in them than anything else," says Taylor. "They just glorified the experience and were written just to sell copies. There's not much truth in them.

"I wanted to set the record straight and talk about the effects that it had, about the post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), so people can get an idea of what the experience was really like," he adds.

After his military service, Taylor worked as a project superintendent for Hoffman Construction Company. For 12 years he lived and worked in Alaska, where he met his wife, Paulette, and where the Taylors two sons, Lee and Bobby, were born. Taylor managed several large construction projects, including the expansion of the Anchorage International Airport, and the $1.5-billion expansion of the Intel Corp. facility in Rio Rancho, New Mexico, in 1993.

Taylor retired from Hoffman last year, after 30 years with the company. The Taylors own YellowRose Farm in Albuquerque, and in partnership with Dr. Truman Smith they stand Thoroughbred stallions Gold Case, Precocity, and Golden Shine at Smith's Mesa Vista Stud in Raton, New Mexico.

Taylor says his wife is the true operating force at YellowRose.

"Paulette is the center of this operation," he says. "She ran it by herself for nine years when I was working out of town and living in Oregon. She still basically runs it by herself.

"I just try to stay out of her hair and do what she tells me," Taylor adds with a laugh. "She schedules all of the veterinary appointments and cleans the pastures and stalls. Right now, we have four people working for us, and she manages all the help."

The Taylors have two horses in competition with trainer Gary Cross – Lakeview Rose, a 4-year-old filly by Precocity who in February broke her maiden at Sunland Park, and Karen's Miracle, a maiden 3-year-old daughter of Precocity with just two starts. Lakeview Rose is out of the Taylors' Beth's Our Choice, an 18-year-old mare by 1977 Triple Crown winner Seattle Slew who has foaled six winners and the earners of more than $319,000 from six starters.

Neither Lakeview Rose nor Karen's Miracle raced as 2-year-olds.

"I typically don't run my horses as 2-year-olds – if I do, it's late in the year at Zia Park, and then I'm trying to get them ready to race at Sunland Park as 3-year-olds," Taylor says.

"I don't think 2-year-olds are mature enough to race. Their bones haven't been given a chance to get enough density. "When I have a quality horse, I like to treat it like an investment and protect it," he adds. "If I push the horse when it's young, I'm not likely to get the full potential out of it."

Another Taylor homebred, Twelve O'clock Rock, has been racing in eastern Canada for Lamar Squires. The 3-year-old Precocity gelding won a $10,000 maiden claiming route at Fort Erie last October, and most recently she ran a close second in a $30,000 claimer with a $45,600 purse at Woodbine Racecourse near Toronto.

Taylor's interests go beyond racing. He is a four-term past president of the New Mexico Houndsmen Association and a member of the National Rifle Association. He enjoys target shooting with Lee and the Taylors' granddaughter, Tamra. And, as the state representative of the Marine Scout Sniper Association, he helps counsel returning scout snipers and other military veterans.

Taylor recently took time to visit with our magazine for an interview.

NMHBA Magazine: How did you get interested in horse racing?

Jay Taylor: My dad claimed his first racehorse in 1959, and we've had horses here ever since. He claimed the horse, named Turalea, for $2,000, and he won four races in a row with him. Dad moved him up in class every time until he lost him in a claim for $4,500, which was a lot more than he paid for him.

I started going to the racetrack when I was nine. My brother and I sold Cokes at the New Mexico State Fair every year for a while – we bought the Cokes for a dime apiece and sold them for 15 cents. We worked at the racetrack during the day, then at night we'd go over to (Tingley) Coliseum and sell at the rodeo there. We made more money in 10 days back then than most adults made for a week's worth of work. It was nothing for us to make $300 during the course of the state fair, and that was a lot of money back in the late '50s.

NMHBA: When did you start YellowRose Farm?

JT: Paulette and I started it in 2000. I bought a Quarter Horse mare and bred it to one of the stallions at Double LL Farm. I bought a couple of other Quarter Horses at the sale in Ruidoso and ran them, and then I went to Kentucky and bought some Thoroughbred mares.

I decided I'd rather breed and race Thoroughbreds because I think it's more difficult to get the upper-class Quarter Horses. There are considerably more Thoroughbreds out there, and if you do your homework you can get some fairly high-class Thoroughbreds at an affordable price. That's tougher to do with Quarter Horses.

When I went to Kentucky to buy those mares, I also bought a few weanlings. I started breeding those mares, and a few of them were stakes-placed mares that had earned $70,000, $80,000. At the time, I noticed that a lot of the Thoroughbred stallions here in New Mexico were either unraced, or hadn't earned much purse money. There were some good stallions out there, but the choices were limited, so I decided I'd get my own stallions and build my breeding program around that.

The first stallion I brought here was Seacliff (a Grade 3-winning son of Valid Appeal who earned $456,300 from 11 races), and we stood him at our farm for a few years. Then Truman Smith asked if he could buy half interest in him, but I told Truman that instead of that, let's go out and get another stallion, and we'll go partners on him.

So I brought Precocity back from Florida. We did well with him the first year, so Truman suggested we get another stallion. I went to Kentucky the following year and bought Gold Case from Frank Stronach's Adena Springs.

During that period, Seacliff had a breeding problem and we quit standing him commercially. We eventually got the problem taken care of, and I moved him to Los Lunas, where he stands at Brian Bentley's farm. Brian and I are partners on Seacliff, and we still breed a few mares to him every year.

NMHBA: Are you optimistic about the future of racing in New Mexico?

JT: Yes, but I have some concerns, one of which is that I think Texas is eventually going to get slots legalized at its tracks -- I don't know if it's going to be next year, or sometime within the next five years, but I think it's going to happen. If you look at New Mexico's neighboring states right now, Colorado doesn't have much racing, Arizona is not doing too well, and neither is Texas. Now is the time when we in New Mexico should be improving the quality of our racing.

A lot of people have tunnel vision and say, 'Well, the New Mexico racing industry is better than it's ever been, let's just keep things the way they are.' But my experience tells me that, in business, you either grow or you decline.

Right now, it's difficult to get a New Mexico-bred in a race in this state, and we have to change that. The new track in Raton (La Mesa) will help, once that gets up and running, and that's good. We can't get a lot of money for the foals we breed if people can't race them.

NMHBA: What are some specific things you think can help improve New Mexico racing?

JT: I'd like to see an owners' incentive for New Mexico-bred horses racing outside the state. Louisiana has a program like that now, where they've set up a fund, and whenever a Louisiana-bred wins or places second or third in a race outside the state, the owner gets an incentive.

Primarily because of that fund, Louisiana-bred yearlings draw a lot more money because people come in from other states to bid on them. If we did something similar, some of the quality New Mexico-breds would stay here to race, but some would go to other states, and the people who race them there would get an incentive. That would entice them to come down here and bid on our horses. It would bring out-of-state money in to to buy our horses, and it would give the New Mexico-breds who stay in the state more of a chance to get into a race.

For example, it would be nice if the guy who owns Twelve O'clock Rock would come down here and buy another New Mexico-bred. He didn't buy that horse in New Mexico, he bought it in Kentucky. We need to do more to encourage people from out of state to buy our horses. As it stands now, it doesn't make much sense for me to go to Kentucky and buy a mare for $80,000, bring her back here and get $1,500 for her baby. It also doesn't make sense for me to go somewhere else and bring back a top-notch, high-dollar stallion.

I also think we should consider allowing a mare to go out of state to breed once in her lifetime, come back here to foal, and let that foal be a New Mexico-bred. Here's an example -- I brought back an old broodmare named Debit My Account, and she was a stakes winner in Kentucky, was Grade 3 placed and earned almost $450,000. I paid $40,000 for her, and it was probably foolish for me to bring her to New Mexico, because I'll have a hard time getting my money out of her with New Mexico-bred foals. I'd probably be better off sending her back to Kentucky to breed, and sell the foal out there.

Now, if I could send her out of state just once, and breed her to Tiznow or another big-name stallion, and have it be a New Mexico-bred, that would help draw out-of-state buyers to come to our sale to look at that foal.

I think those are the types of things we should look at, but by no means do I think we need to open our breeding program up completely. I don't think we need to reinvent our program, because 90 percent of what we have is good. We just need to tweak it a little.

NMHBA: Why did you decide to run for the NMHBA board, and what skills do you think you bring to the table?

JT: A few people asked me to run, and I've always felt that if I'm going to be a member of an organization, then I have to be an active member. If I can help improve the racing industry here by being on the board, then I'm OK with that.

As far as skills go, I've managed 3,500 construction workers on a job site, and there is a lot of coordination involved in that. I have some organizational skills and some knowledge of the horse industry. There certainly are a lot of people out there with a lot more knowledge of the horse industry than I have, including some people on our board. Rita Danley, for example, has been around the racing industry her whole life and brings a lot of knowledge and experience to the board.

I like racing in New Mexico. We have one of the best breeders' programs in the country, if not the best, but I still think there is some fine tuning that needs to be done. And, I think our legislators and citizens understand that the racing industry has a big economic impact on the state. It's important that they continue to understand that.

We have a good year-round circuit right now, and the new track in Raton will help that. When my dad was racing, his circuit was Albuquerque, Omaha (Ak-Sar-Ben), Denver (Centennial), and back to New Mexico at Sunland Park. Now, people in New Mexico don't have to leave the state if they want to watch their horses' race.

Sent to post as the 7-5 choice, That's Who scored a three-quarter length victory in the December 31, $110,000 Red Hedeman Mile Stakes (R) for New Mexico-bred 2-year-olds at Sunland Park.

That's Who covered his eight-furlong trip in 1:37.11 while earning his fourth win in seven starts and second stakes score. Joel Marr prepped the homebred Quinton's Gold gelding for owners Sam E. and Latane Stevens of Lamesa, Texas.

Now 15, Quinton's Gold has sired the earners of more than $1.9 million from 27 starters, including seven-time stakes winner Lefty Who, the winner of the '08 Red Hedeman Mile. He stands for a $3,500 fee at Steve Prather's Doubletree Farm in Hobbs, New Mexico.

That's Who was coming off of a third-place finish in the December 4, $129,860 New Mexico Eddy County Stakes (R) for state-bred 2-year-olds at Zia Park. The $66,000 winner's share of the Red Hedeman Mile purse pushed his bankroll to $220,770.

That's Who's stakes resume includes a 1 1/2-length victory in the 6-furlong, $151,600 New Mexico Cup Juvenile Colts & Geldings Stakes (R) at Zia Park on October 30, and a runner-up finish to Desert Road in the 5 1/2-furlong, $149,250 Rio Grande Senior Futurity (R) at Ruidoso Downs on July 31.

Tarahumar Flags is a gelding by the Seattle Slew stallion Avenue Of Flags racing for Kings Ransom LLC. Tarahumar Flags has won two of six races, including a 5 1/2-furlong non-winners-of-two $12,500 claiming sprint for New Mexico-breds on December 17, and he has earned $53,458.

A homebred chestnut gelding by the Giant's Causeway stallion The Way Home, E Bar Way was coming off of a half-length victory at odds of 10-1 in the New Mexico Eddy County Stakes. E Bar Way has won two of six races and has banked $110,856 for his owner, Donnell Echols. ♦
